SECRETARY TRACY VISITS THE NORFOLK NAVY YARD.

Indictments Against Harrison Wagner in Stafford.

Gen. Smith Barely Alive—Railroad Extension From Danville South—Buena Vista Fire Brick.

NORFOLK, Va., Mar. 19.—[Special.]—Secretary Tracy and party came up to Norfolk this morning from Old Point of the light-house tender Fish Hawk, after having spent the night at the Hygeia Hotel. A salute of seventeen guns was fired as the party neared the navy-yard, and when they landed Commodore Weaver and the officers of the yard were drawn up in line to receive them. The Secretary went at once on board the Baltimore, where he remained several hours in conversation with Captain Schely, her commander, and Commodore Weaver. It is understood that the topic of conversation was the delay of getting the Baltimore ready for sea. After going all over the Baltimore, the Secretary visited the battleship Texas and cruiser No. 8, and then went to the gunboat connection. Loring was called at Commandant's Quarters, and at 4 o'clock the Secretary and his party took steam launches and were conveyed to the Virginia Beach Railroad Company's wharves, where they boarded a train for the Beaches. They will spend the night at the Princess Anne Hotel and return to Washington to-morrow on the Dispatch, she having arrived here this morning uninjured by her grounding in the Potomac.

Assistant Naval Constructor Charles H. Moore, who has been stationed at the navy-yard here for some time, died at his residence in Portsmouth at an early hour this morning. Mr. Hewes entered the service in 1879, and was one of the government's principal naval constructors. In 1880, he came to the navy-yard, and was appointed to the Bureau of Ordnance. He died suddenly at Alexandria, Va., on Feb. 12, 1881, while on duty at the Bureau of Ordnance.

Mr. Moore's remains were interred in the cemetery of the U.S. Naval Observatory.
